

Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders

Departmental Honors

Admission Requirements

The candidate must:

- Be a declared major in the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders.
- Have a minimum overall grade point average of 3.30 and a minimum grade point average in major courses of 3.50.
- Have completed 60 semester hours of college or university level coursework.
- Submit the written recommendations of two ISU faculty persons to the Departmental Honors Advisor.
- Apply for admission to the Department Honors Advisor.

Program Requirements

In order to successfully complete the Departmental Honors Program, the candidate must:

- Be a member of the Honors Program.
- Complete all requirements in the Department of Communication Sciences and Disorders for the major in either Speech Pathology or Audiology.
- Receive no grade lower than "B" in CSD courses, maintain a 3.50 GPA in CSD courses and a 3.30 GPA overall.
- Complete a minimum of 6 semester hours of in-course honors work in 300-level CSD courses.
- Complete an Honors Project (CSD 299) or Honors Thesis (IDS 395) for 3 semester hours under the direction of a CSD faculty member.
- Apply to the Departmental Honors Advisor and to the ISU Honors Office at the beginning of the final semester of the undergraduate program for Honors Degree designation.

Privileges

- The student will have the advantages of priority registration afforded to all Honors students.
- The graduate will receive Departmental Honors Scholar designation on the diploma and transcript.

Departmental Honors Advisor:
Heidi Verticchio
Fairchild Hall 217-D
309-438-3266
hfr Fritz@ilstu.edu